

Cross ownership of newspapers and television stations is a horrible idea. It is completely unnecessary, and would result in less news and fewer independent reporting sources, when what we need are more sources. It will only serve to further the interests of a relatively few large corporate interests. Please at least maintain the semblance of public interest rules that are now in existence.